SPCOM 2020

International Conference on Signal Processing and Communications
July 20-23, 2020; Indian Institute of Science, Bengaluru, India

Sponsorship Opportunities

SPCOM 2020 is going virtual!

SPCOM provides a leading forum for researchers from academia, research laboratories, and industries to come together to share and learn about the current developments and emerging trends in the broad areas of signal processing, communications, networking, machine learning, and artificial intelligence. SPCOM 2020 will be the thirteenth in the series of conferences and will feature several high-profile plenary talks, tutorials, and talks by distinguished researchers from academia and industry on topics of current interest. About 400 delegates from India and abroad are expected to participate in the conference virtually.
